...is not a sophisticated piece of software with lots of cool features.

Its just a simple Applescript droplet, that you can drop a bunch of files onto. It then pops up a dialog asking you for a name for the folder it is about to create. After having created the folder, it will move the files dropped onto it into the newly created folder.

Not more not less - but it saves me a lot of time.

Requirements:

MacOS X 10.4 (former versions might work but have not been tested)
